The loss in the 2d division of the 9th corps, Gen. Ledlic commanding, was very severe, and is estimated at from 1,000 to 1,200, while many make the figures larger.

Among the missing I regret to amounce the name of Gen. Barliett. He succeeded in reaching the fort with his command, but having accidentally broken his cork leg, he was unable to get off the field. He, however, he held possession of the ground for several hours, and only surrendered when all hope of casepe was gone. Some 200 men, both black and white, were with him at the time, a few of whom managed to get back to our lines.

Nearly all Gen. Bartlett's staff were captured, i the same time. Col. Marshall, commanding the 2d brigade of this division, was size taken prisoner with several of his staff. Also Col. we therefore assert that either this Government must be overthrown or our rulers, though elected from the people, and warm with sympathy for all the people, must learn that plotting for the overshrow of the Government, its dissolution or resistances to its laws is a crime, and that the oriminal must be hung. Now is an opportunity for the government or exercises a wise framess if the "great conspiracy," accounts of which we have pablished, and further accounts of which as it exists in Indiana, we publish to day, is a vile and detestable fahrication, based on no foundation in truth, let the government all the falsehood to its bottom, expose its perjured manufacturers, and relieve truell of the odious responsibility of its publication. If on the other hand it is probably true, but too centralingly masked and covered to render a conviction probable, let the government remember that its functions are prosecuting, not indical—to accuse, and not to try—and let it trust the whole question of the guilt or innocence of the accused to a jury of the people. If flustly it be not only true, but can be proven, and the traitors can be convicted, in the name of the constitution and laws which Mr. Liscoln has solemnly sworm to defend, in the name of the God of institics and mercy, with whom that

She told him all that had happened, and that she was afraid to remain there any longer unless he was there. They agreed to get married soon, possibly the next day. The day after the occurrence they went back to the house and remained there; Steltz also returned that day or the next, and the night after his return Franzen and Mary heard tim working down in the cellar, and at one time heard a dead, heavy noise, like the falling of a heavy body, which they supposed to made by Stelt throwing the corpse into the grave which he dug for it. During the time he was occupied at the burial he came up stairs four or five times and drank whiskey, in order to nerve himself for the work.

LANCH LAW IN IOWA.

Out of the Jall to be Hanged.

It is if the Jall to the Jall to the Jall to the Would have been hung had not an appeal to the Supreme Court stayed the proceedings and postponed the execution. During the forence in the streets were coming into town, until by noon the streets were crowded. The people id not seem excited no threats were made, and in fact up to this time nothing irangired to indicate any unlawful purpose on the part of the assemble of multitude, estimated to amount to 2,000 men, women and children. The citizens generally supposed that the crowd, unapprased of the postponement of the execution, had come in impelled by curiously to see McComb hung.

About twelve o'clock, however, impelled seemingly by a common purpose, the crowd agathered about the jall, and the leaders, confined to some dozen persons, arowed their purpose to get hold of the prisoner, McComb, and hang him. Sheriff Derby was at his post and resisted the execution of their purpose to get hold of the prisoner, McComb, and hang him. Sheriff Derby was at his post and resisted the execution of their purpose to get hold of the prisoner, McComb, and some two or three of the ringleaders.

Kas deby a few. Senator Dixon, Judge Hendershott, Ron. E. H. Stiles, and Capt. A. A. Start addressed the crowd, arging them to desist, and let the law take lix course. All however, had no apparent restraining effect, A woman mounted the fewe, and made for the front door of the fall, one fellow brandshing a ledge-heamer. Bat Sheriff Derby and the few assisting him made such effect wal resistance that it is an and the second and the second and the second and the second to the secon was taken, which was decided to be in favor of the hanging. A rush was now make for the front door of the hall, one fellow brandlashing a sledge-hansmer. But Sheriff Derby and the lew assisting him made such effectual resistance that it is probable the attempt might have been felled had not part of the crowd gone round to the back side of the bullding, and knocking off two or three boards of the fence entreameding the yard, effected an entrance, after which, with sledge hammer, the outer door was broken open and then the locks in the cell in which McComb was confined were kroken, and the prisoner dragged out. He saked, for an hour, which was given him, to prepare for deash. A clergyman was sought, and he was finally taken into the Catholic Church and baptized by Father Kreckie, the crowd following. After this he was led dewn town by way, of Court and Front streets to the corner of Market and was then placed in a wagon and started, accompanied by an immense multitude, it was given out, for the other side of the river near where the remains of the girl were iound, but if such was the purpose, it was changed after half the crowd had forded the river, and they finally moved off down Front streets. They went out about a mile on the Agency road, where preparations were commenced for the execution. A rope was tied around the neck of the prisoner. Some speaking and some fighting among the crowd tollowed. After a short halt, facilities for an execution vere not deemed satisfactory, and they crossed over the ridge and haited under a bent tree, but the ground was so uneven that it was difficult to keep the wagon stationary. They finally, however, got the rope adjusted, McComb suisiting, and were about thyowing it over a limb. Before this was done, however, McComb requested permission to makes a few remarks. He said: "I have the rope around my neck as you see, and have only a few motives to live, but I am an innocent man. If you will give me nutil the next court I will nrove the General
